■ Market commentary

Global equities extended their rally in October, led once again by US megacap tech stocks. The MSCI World rose 2.0%, with the S&P 500 up 2.3% and the Magnificent Seven gaining 5.2%. Their combined market cap now accounts for 36% of the S&P 500 and nearly a quarter of the MSCI World. Japan and the UK also posted strong local currency returns of 6.2% and 4.2% respectively, though USD strength trimmed gains for international investors.

The AI ecosystem remained the dominant market driver. Q3 earnings from Microsoft, Alphabet, Amazon and Meta showed aggregate capex up nearly 70% YoY to $97bn, with strong cloud and device demand. Nvidia briefly became the world's first $5tn company, while Microsoft and Apple hit $4tn. However, concerns about valuations and capex returns emerged, with Meta's results triggering a 12% share price drop.

Bond markets were mixed. US Treasuries returned 0.6% as yields fell following a 25bps Fed rate cut, bringing the Fed Funds rate to 3.75-4.0%. The Fed also announced an end to quantitative tightening from December, easing financial conditions. However, Chair Powell struck a cautious tone, suggesting further cuts are not guaranteed. The 10-year Treasury yield ended the month at 4.1%, down 50bps from May.

A one-year extension of the US-China trade truce helped sentiment, with rollbacks on rare earth and semiconductor restrictions. While tariffs remain high, the deal marked a meaningful de-escalation. China's economy, however, continues to struggle. CPI and PPI remain in deflationary territory, and the MSCI China index fell 3.8%, led by tech losses.

While risks around tariffs, debt sustainability and private credit persist, AI-led investment and easing financial conditions continue to support a constructive medium-term outlook. Valuations leave little room for disappointment, and a period of consolidation may be due. We remain cautiously optimistic and continue to seek selective opportunities to add risk.

The launch date is the start date of the portfolio. Returns before this date are back tested using the portfolio's fund holdings and published returns for these as at the date of launch date, which would not reflect Equilibrium's historic asset allocation views, or any changes, which would have been made to the portfolio's holdings over time. From the launch date, returns are based on the published returns for the portfolio's fund holdings and any changes which are made to these. All returns are calculated on a total return basis after the deduction of all fees. Returns for periods exceeding one year are annualised. All returns are quoted in US dollars, unless otherwise stated. Total investment charges (TIC) are the sum of a fund's total expense ratio (TER) and the transaction costs (TC). The portfolio's TIC is an estimated total for the portfolio based on the weighted average of the underlying funds in which the portfolio invests using the latest available data. If a TIC is not available, we may use the TER, which is the TIC excluding transaction costs. Where neither a TIC nor a TER is available, we may use the investment manager's ongoing fee.

The portfolio's asset allocation is based on the weighted average of the underlying funds in which the portfolio invests using the latest available data. The portfolio's asset allocation may differ from time to time due to market movements, changes to the portfolio and the underlying fund data and limitations. The underlying funds will contain exposure to assets that are invested globally, which may present additional risks. The value of an investor's investment and the income arising from it will therefore be subject to exchange rate fluctuations. Foreign securities may have additional material risks, depending on the specific risks affecting that country, such as: potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds; macroeconomic risks; political risks; foreign exchange risks; tax risks; settlement risks; and potential limitations on the availability of market information. The portfolio may also invest in funds which do not permit daily dealing. Investments in such funds will only be realisable on their dealing days. It is not possible to assess the proper market price of these investments, other than on the fund's dealing days. Higher risk investments may be subject to sudden and larger falls in value in comparison to other investments. Higher risk investments include, but are not limited to, investments in smaller companies (even in developed markets), investments in emerging markets or single country debt or equity funds and investments in high yield or non-investment grade debt. Individual investor returns may differ as a result of platform and adviser fees, the actual investment date, cash flows and other transactions.
