⁵ Strategy allocation figures reflect the classification of the CISs (or similar schemes) held by the Portfolio and look through to the underlying holdings of such schemes.

■ Market commentary

After a difficult first quarter, markets rebounded strongly in April as a tentative ceasefire and renewed US-Iran dialogue lifted sentiment and triggered a sharp rally in risk assets. Geopolitics briefly took a back seat to the dominant tech and AI narrative that has driven markets in recent years, even though underlying tensions in the Middle East remained largely unresolved. The Strait of Hormuz stayed effectively closed, regional conflicts persisted, and oil prices remained elevated. Brent Crude is still near doubling its start-of-year level and futures are implying $100 oil through September, posing a potential headwind to growth and earnings. Nonetheless, investors welcomed the relative calm, with "not worse" news proving supportive.

Performance was broadly positive across asset classes. Global equities rose 9.4%, marking one of the strongest monthly gains in decades. Growth significantly outperformed value (12.3% vs 6.9%), while quality delivered 9%, though more defensive segments lagged. Technology led markets higher, with the Nasdaq and 'Mag 7' up over 15%. Asian and emerging markets also performed strongly, supported by outsized gains in semiconductor names such as SK Hynix, which helped drive Korea's KOSPI sharply higher. Despite the risk-on backdrop, bond markets were relatively resilient as easing inflation expectations provided support. Credit performed well, with spreads tightening across both corporate and emerging markets.

Real assets and alternatives also delivered positive returns, while gold declined modestly, reflecting limited demand for traditional hedges in a strong risk environment. Energy prices eased slightly over the month, although remained elevated in absolute terms. In the UK, relations with the US appeared to stabilise following a successful state visit, offering a temporary reprieve from recent political tensions.

We enter May with improved momentum. Portfolios remain well diversified with a broadly constructive risk stance. While valuations have risen in parts of the market, we continue to emphasise staying invested amid rapidly shifting sentiment. A diversified, style-balanced global equity allocation remains central, with elevated concentration in markets enhancing the opportunity for active management, even if headline index returns moderate from here.

The launch date is the start date of the portfolio. Returns before this date are back tested using the portfolio's fund holdings and published returns for these as at the date of launch date, which would not reflect Equilibrium's historic asset allocation views, or any changes, which would have been made to the portfolio's holdings over time. From the launch date, returns are based on the published returns for the portfolio's fund holdings and any changes which are made to these. All returns are calculated on a total return basis after the deduction of all fees. Returns for periods exceeding one year are annualised. All returns are quoted in US dollars, unless otherwise stated. Total investment charges (TIC) are the sum of a fund's total expense ratio (TER) and the transaction costs (TC). The portfolio's TIC is an estimated total for the portfolio based on the weighted average of the underlying funds in which the portfolio invests using the latest available data. If a TIC is not available, we may use the TER, which is the TIC excluding transaction costs. Where neither a TIC nor a TER is available, we may use the investment manager's ongoing fee.

The portfolio's asset allocation is based on the weighted average of the underlying funds in which the portfolio invests using the latest available data. The portfolio's asset allocation may differ from time to time due to market movements, changes to the portfolio and the underlying fund data and limitations. The underlying funds will contain exposure to assets that are invested globally, which may present additional risks. The value of an investor's investment and the income arising from it will therefore be subject to exchange rate fluctuations. Foreign securities may have additional material risks, depending on the specific risks affecting that country, such as: potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds; macroeconomic risks; political risks; foreign exchange risks; tax risks; settlement risks; and potential limitations on the availability of market information. The portfolio may also invest in funds which do not permit daily dealing. Investments in such funds will only be realisable on their dealing days. It is not possible to assess the proper market price of these investments, other than on the fund's dealing days. Higher risk investments may be subject to sudden and larger falls in value in comparison to other investments. Higher risk investments include, but are not limited to, investments in smaller companies (even in developed markets), investments in emerging markets or single country debt or equity funds and investments in high yield or non-investment grade debt. Individual investor returns may differ as a result of platform and adviser fees, the actual investment date, cash flows and other transactions.
